

PITTSBURGH, November 21, 2023 (Newswire.com) - SteelBridge Consulting, a boutique consulting services firm providing expertise and solutions primarily to the private capital industry, is pleased to announce the expansion of the services and capabilities of its Center of Excellence.

Fund managers are being confronted with increasingly complex and time-consuming back-office responsibilities. SteelBridge's Center of Excellence serves as a valuable resource, providing managed services and gap administration. This allows fund managers to retain control over certain operational aspects while outsourcing others using a customized solution. It enables their teams to focus on high-value activities while also receiving high-quality back-office services in a cost-effective manner.

As a result of the expansion of this service offering, SteelBridge is positioned to provide a variety of managed services to clients, including fund accounting and financial reporting, investor relations services, treasury management, portfolio monitoring, and management company services, among others.

"Our commitment to serving the evolving needs of our clients in the private capital industry remains unwavering. The expansion of our Center of Excellence and the appointment of Matt Crotty as its new Director demonstrate our dedication to providing best-in-class solutions and exceptional service. We understand the increasing challenges fund managers face, and our customized solutions are designed to drive operational excellence. We look forward to working closely with our clients to help them reach their goals and maximize their potential." – James Haluszczak, Managing Partner of SteelBridge Consulting.

SteelBridge has appointed Matt Crotty as the new Director and leader of the Center of Excellence, drawing on his experience and expertise in the private capital sector. "I am excited to take the helm of SteelBridge Consulting's Center of Excellence. I am eager to collaborate with our clients to provide cutting-edge solutions that will help solve their distinctive challenges and optimize their organization's potential and operational efficiency." – Matt Crotty, Director of the Center of Excellence at SteelBridge.
